

Material Made From a Polyurethane Gel and Process for its ProductionAbstract of the Disclosure:

A polyurethane gel filled with an expanded calcium carbonate offers an improved material for various applications, wherein the advantageous gel properties are retained, but at the same time negative properties, such as relatively high specific weight and high thermal conductivity, are avoided.